A PLUCKY PARSON .- The renowned Parson Brownlow, editor of the Knoxville (Tenn) Whig, flings his defiance to the "rebels" in a late number of that paper. He says:

Southerners in South Carolina, Alabama and Georgia, are constantly sending in their insulting episites to us, and ask a discontinuance of their papers because we are opposed to secession. We receive as many new pato secession. We receive as many new patrons as we lose old ones; but if we were to receive none, and every man on our list were withdrawn, we could have no part or lot in the wickedness and treason of secession. the wickedness and freason of secession. This effort to break up this Government, led on by South Carolina, is a bold, wicked, daring and damnable act, for which its wicked leaders aught to be ignominously executed! This whole scheme of disunion is a more consummate Abolition contrivance. than ever was devised by the North, by the most ultra anti-slavery men, and will work the greatest mischief to the slave population of the country. It will bring about the over-throw of slavery one hundred years sooner than the Republican party could have done it. The cotton States may go out of the

it. The cotton States may go out of the Union; the border States may go out with them; all, together, may form a Southern confederace. We shall adhere to our Union, Constitution and laws, and denounce secession and the miserable Southern confederacy that may spring from it, and those who sion and the miserable Southern confederacy that may spring from it, and those who brought it about, though it may cost us our life on the scaffeld! Nay we shall dare say in the teeth of South Carolina, that the Federal Government ought to enforce the laws, collect her revenue, and lash the rebellious States back into line at the point of the sword and the mouth of the cannon. We have no desire to live under any Government organized and controlled by the corrupt, wicked and hell-deserving villains rupt, wicked and hell-deserving who lead this revolution in the South.

LOUIS NAPOLEON AT THE THEATRE-Paris correspondent of the London News, under date of December 28th, writes :

The great event of the hour is the pro luction last night at the Cirque Imperial, in the presence of the Emperor, of M. Moequard's long-deferred melo drama, Les Massacres de Syric. I say M. Moequard's drama becau e every one knows that he is the principal author of it, although in answer to the usual call at the fall of the curtain, the name of his coadjuter, M. Victor Sejonr, was given his coadjuter, M. Victor Sejour, was given out. The Emperor went almost in state to to witness the first representation of his private secretary's performance. He sat most conspicuously in the front of a balcony, with Marshal Randon and other officers of high rank immediately behind him. The performance was meant to be, and has produced the effect of, a political demonstration. The great moral of it is that the "Eastern Question" is ripe for settlement, and that it can only be settled by the word of Napoleon III. Abdel Kader is brought upon the stage, and Abdel Kader is brought upon the stage, and many pungent phrases in praise of the Emperor are put into his mouth. At every one of these bits of "tag" a well trained claque thundered applause; and, to the clamor of the borny hands paid at two francs the pair, the Emperor repeatedly rose and bowed responsive obeisance. The Presse, in endeavoring to account for the continued fall at the Bourse, says: "The curious thing to-day is that the downward movement is attributed ternal and internal remedies, which co-operate towards cure with a rapidity that looks like magic. Their double action is irresistible. Unhappy creatures, "the mere despair of surgery," objects so horribly unsightly that the mest because ternal and internal remedies, which co-opepair of surgery," objects so horribly unsightly that the most benevolent turn away from them with a shudder, have been snatched from the very edge of the grave, and restored to life, health and society, by these dual medicaments—these twin medical chams. The ointment should be rubbed twice a day into the parts affected, and the pills should be taken according to the printed directions accompanying every box. The cure will be complete and permanent. VICTORIA, Nov. 17th, 1860 Tuesday Morning, March 26, 1861. The Expedient Proclamation. We publish to-day, for the information of our British Columbian readers, the last procta nation of Gov Douglas in its entirety. The design of the proclamation is to remit the purchase money of land in British Columbia, to certain retired Naval or Military officers according to their time and rank in either service. Were one thing more t ian another necessary to prove the necessity for a legislature in the neighboring colony, we believe it may be found in the last proclamation. When the public lands can be donated, if no. squandered, without the advice and consent of the people; when the public lands can be given away to one class of men who pay not a cent into the colonial treasury; when all others in the service of their country have to pay for their lands except a favored few, who are rewarded at the expense of the toiling many; when the pioneers of the country located on the soil who have reclaimed it from a wilderness and made it productive, are told by the Imperial Government, they must be selfsupporting; and yet be compelled by an irresponsible executive to see laws made to enrich a favored tew at their expense,-we think the time has really arrived to make extraordinary exertions to put an end to despotism and inaugurate free institutions. Whatever may be the motives of Gov. Douglas in granting away the lands to retired officers, we fail to see either statesmanship or even the shadow of justice. He tells us, "it is expedient." Why it is expedient, the public are not told. The only inference we can draw from the document itself is that it is intended as a bonus offered to retired officers or officers in the Navy or Army to retire in order to become "actual settlers." If the proclamation made it necessary for them to become actual settlers on the land granted to them without payment, it would relieve it from the appearance of being a mere job. But there is not a word nor a clause making it imperative to settle on the free grant. In the first proviso it is enacted that the grantee must be " a bona fide settler in British Columbia ;" not on the land. Consequently he may smoke his cigars, drink his brandy and water, eat his fine dinners, and never turn a furrow nor cut down a tree, nor set foot for two years on his free grant; and at the end of that period receive an absolute fee simple title, merely for living in the country. The preamble is a delusion; it is a deception palmed off on the public; it says "it is expedient" to remit money for "lands purchased for actual settlement," and yet in the enacting clauses of the proclamation " actual settlement" is made to mean "live anywhere you please in British Commbia." If such is statesmanship, we ask what is blind stupidity? If such legislation tends to the creation of a colony where public burdens bear equally on all, and where the publie policy distributes public favors to all classes alike, we ask where is favoriteism Where class legislation? Where is equal and exact justice to all? All we see in the proclamation is class legislation. Following it we see public discontent; class arrayed against class; the bone and sinew of the country toiling to enrich a pampered few. We see an exclusive class, not by merit, but by money, obtain a commission in the Imperial army. We see the same class invited by proclamation to reside in British Columbia and get 1500 or 3000 acres of land for noth ing. Is this the kind of popularity to seek? Ar such persons "the discrimenating por tion of the community," whose good opinion he cultivates at the public expense? If he had offered free grants to all persons in the Imperial service, his policy would have had the merit of being broader, and so far more would been treated alike. Although as a colonial On WEDNESDAY, March 27, 1861 just. dependency, receiving no aid from the Imperial Government, retired officers would have no just claim on British Columbia for any fee or reward; yet, as expressive of our national regard to the army and navy for national services, if we gave free grants, we should have given them to all-to the private soldier as well as to the General-Commanding. Were that done, there would be some indication that Gov. Douglas really recognized a debt due to the national army and navy; and as a wise and generous statesman, whilst rewarding them with land for services done on sea and land, at home and in the colonies, he at the same time turned the rewarded to account by making them bona fide settlers on the soil granted to them. Such a limited view even he has not taken; but the proclamation merely caters to a class in the Imperial services. Can any one tell why military chaplains, commissariat officers, pursers, midshipmen, warrant officers and others are excluded in the proclamation? Are they not just as good flesh and blood? The real reason lies in a nut-shell. In the army, if a captain gives up his commission, and there are three or a dozen officers below him in the same regiment waiting for his advancements to get their promotion, then the three or a dozen officers of lower rank are promoted at once instead of perhaps waiting for years. They are thus one step advanced. To make up the loss to the retired officer besides half pay all the officers subscribe some £200, and the Commander-in Chief grants a land ticket according to the time in the service which some unfortunate Colony like British Colubin, with a super-loyal Governor, makes good. Here is the real secret of the pro-clamation. The whole mystery is cleared up when we understand that it is to promote men in some regiment at home. The excuse of settling in some colony on retiring, is dovetailed beautifully into the proclamation, and made available to benefit one class at the expense of the many. If Governor Douglas wishes to promote actual settlement by donating the land to actual settlers, no objection would perhaps be offered; but such a measure must be general, not particular. It must embrace all classes, not a section of the community. If it does not, it causes more evil by class jealousy than it can do good by favoring the most intelligent, brave, or accomplished officer in the national service.

SAN JUAN LIME,

PEASE & BOYCE,

From the Northwest Coast,

The schooner Nonpareil, John S. Shaff. master, arrived from Fort Simpson yesterday morning, bringing a quantity of valuable furs obtained from the Northern Indians in exchange for groceries and clothing.

Capt. Shaff reports the mysterious disappearance of R. X. Lewis, the owner of the Nonpariel, which happened in this wise: The vessel, between the 12th and 20th of Each user was a peaked some 28 will-act. The vessel, between the 12th and 20th of February was anchored some 28 miles above Fort Simpson, and Mr. Lewis. having occasion to visit the fort, left in a boat. He reached the fort safely, and started at dusk on his return to his vessel, and was not heard of afterwards. The boat was a small and unsafe one, and as the weather was rough, it is thought that it may have been capsized and Lewis drowned, although some capsized and Lewis drowned, although some slight suspicious are entertained that he was received and a successful that it may have been capsized and Lewis drowned, although some slight suspicious are entertained that he was slight suspicions are entertained that he was killed by Indians. The deceased's effects were examined in the presence of Mr. Moffit

Upon the return of the Nonpareil to Simpson, Capt. Shaff was obliged to put the vessel under the direction of Mr. Moffit, as the friends of the Indian woman who had been living with Lewis claimed one-half of every-thing, on the ground that she was his wid-

The schooner met with heavy and contin uous gales in coming down, and at one time it was found necessary for the hands to lash themselves to the deck, to prevent being washed off.

Twenty canoes, filled with Chimsean Indiaus, are reported on the way down, and will be here in a few days.

THE LATE EXPLOSION AT FORT MADIson .- Frederick Baker, the sawyer, who was reported as fatally injured by the ex-plosion of the boilers at Meiggs' lumber mills, on the 18th inst., died on the afternoon of the same day. Before he expired he made a statement throwing the blame on and perceiving that the water in the boilers west Coast this summer, and in freighting water. The explosion ensued almost in place. Major Downie and a small party, Baker, together with four stantaneously. others of the killed had just eaten break- and explore the new and much talked of fast and were standing warming themselves by the boilers preparatory to going to work thence the explorers will proceed to the when the explosion took place. The total base of the Rocky Mountains, and prospect number of deaths resulting from this unfortunate occurrence is six. One man, standing at the door of the mill, was struck on the head by a flying brick, but received no injury. The workmen sent from here are busy clearing away the rubbish and re-fit-ting the buildings. The loss to the proprietors will reach $15,000.

ROBBING THE "TIGERS."-Some scamp, probably in need of a rope with which to street. hang himself, stole the haliards belonging to the Tiger Engine Company's flagstaff, on Saturday night. Petty thieves are becoming plenty now-a-days. Yesterday morning a lot of spitoons were stolen from in front of a Yates street bar-room, and every night small articles are taken from the wharves.

A DASHAWAY SOCIETY .- A branch of the San Francisco Dashaway Society is being formed in this city. Yesterday a number of signatures were obtained to a pledge, the signers agreeing to abstain from the use of all intoxicating beverages for the ·pace of six months from date.

DISTURBING THE DEAD .- It is related of to witness the manner in which the Indians inter their dead, he hired some Indians to open a box in which had been placed the body of an Indian belonging to another tribe, and exposed the corpse to view. After he had satisfied his curiosity with the loathsome sight, he departed, leaving the corpse on the ground uncovered, where it was some time afterwards found by the relatives of the deceased, who were greatly excited thereat, and came very near creating a war between propriety, should bear this fact in mind, or some of them may find that their inquisitiveness in this regard will cost them dear.

CAPT. KING .- Serious apprehensions continue to be felt for the safety of Capt. E. Hammond King. The last reliable intelligence received of his whereabouts was by the arrival of the schooner Meg Merriles from Barclay Sound. The Saucy Lass, on which vessel he was, was seen under the lea of an island near Nootka Sound, and the Captain expressed his intention of starting for Victoria on the following day. Since then nothing has been heard of him. The schooner Shark was dispatched on Friday last from Esquimalt in search of the missing gentleman and his companions. It is earnestly hoped that they may yet return safely; and that the detention is owing entirely to adverse winds.

James Reid, the owner of the property to erect a substantial brick building on its site.

In these respects, Mr. Editor, I wish we had, many more such heathens. I think, seriously, when my funds increase, of sending a detachment of them as missionaries to the 200,000 thieves of religious England. The batteries of the Charlestonians, which played so lively a tune when the Star of the West endeavored to reinforce Major Anderson, were mute on the occasion. They doubtless think they have nothing to thank the illustrious patriot for. By a law recently passed the Southerners have also declared the observance of the Fourth of July as a national holiday illegal.

COWICHAN INDIANS KILLED .- Last night a party of eight Cowichan Indians, being camped just below the Custom-house, they having arrived from the upper Sound yes-terday, were set upon by some of the braves of the Chalms, living here, and five of the party killed. The Clalm braves had an easy party killed. The Claim braves had an easy time, as the entire company of Cowichans were intextcated. It is said they had considerable money with them. Three of the party escaped in their canoe. The Claims may now look out for a lick back at any time.—P. T. Register, 20th.

Blood to the Head - Diseases of the United Blood to the Head-Diseases of the Heart.

Blood to the Head—Diseases of the Heart. More persons die suddenly from diseases of the heart than the unlearned suppose; in such complaints, the bowels should always be kept well open, as also where there is a tendency of blood to the head. These celebrated Filis purify the blood in an extraordinary manner, and should be taken in copious doses when such symptoms occur, taking care not to overload the stomach; by this means all danger is quickly averted.

Children's Commitaints. Children's Complaints.

It is not generally known, but such is the fact, that children require medicine oftener than their parents. Three-tourths of the children die betore they attain the age of eight years. Let mothers, then, be wise, and give to their children small doses of these invaluable Fills once or twice every-week, in such quantity as may act gently upon the system twice in the twenty-tour nours. For infants, a Fill may be crushed and given as a powder in a hitte water. The gross humors that are constantly foating about in the blood of children, the forerunners of so many complaints, will thus be expelled, and the lives of thousands saved and preserved to their parents.
